Gail is an accredited National Panel Judge and Examiner and conducts clinics throughout Australia and New Zealand. She enjoys judging immensely and is honoured to have judged some of the best horses and ponies shown over these years. Some of the most recent events included National, Royal, HOTY and State Shows, most recently judging the prestigious Nat Buchanan Trophy Classes for the Australian Stock Horses and the 2009 New Zealand National Championships.

Gail is looking forward to judging at the 2010 Australian National Arabian Championships and wishes to thank the Arabian Horse Society of Australia for her invitation to be part of this prestigious Show.

When asked what her pet hates are, Gail responds that "she hates to see any handler or rider showing any form of mistreatment. She also likes to see a horse being allowed to express itself and showing their natural exuberance. Gail loves to see relaxed horses who really enjoy their work whether it be at halter or under saddle".
